

PUBLIC ADVISORY

The public is hereby advised that the Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”), through the Financing and Lending Companies Department (“FinLenD”), received a report concerning the unauthorized and fraudulent use of the name “Zippeso” in connection with an online lending platform (“OLP”) appearing on the Google Play Store, Apple App Store, and through the website: <https://akce-microfinance.com/>

Based on the information submitted to the Commission, LENDORA LENDING CORP. represented that it does not own, operate, maintain, authorize, or control the foregoing “Zippeso” OLP and website currently appearing online. The Company likewise represented that “Zippeso” was merely a former OLP name that had already been amended and is no longer among the Company’s authorized and disclosed OLPs.

Accordingly, the public is strongly advised to exercise extreme caution in dealing with the foregoing “Zippeso” platform, website, applications, social media pages, agents, representatives, collection personnel, or any persons claiming to be connected therewith.

The public is further advised to first verify with the Commission the legitimacy and recording status of online lending platforms before engaging in any borrowing or financial transaction through digital channels.

Borrowers and members of the public are likewise encouraged to immediately report suspicious activities, unauthorized collection practices, fraudulent loan offers, phishing attempts, or other similar activities connected with the subject platform to the appropriate law enforcement and regulatory agencies.

The Commission reminds the public that online lending activities conducted through unauthorized or unrecorded platforms may expose borrowers to risks involving fraud, identity theft, unauthorized processing of personal data, unfair collection practices, and other unlawful or abusive conduct.
